Daugavpils 11. pamatskola ir uzsākusi eTwinning projektu „E-papīra lelles apmaiņa”.

Projekta partneris ir Ukrainas Volnovakhas skola.

Projekta aktivitāšu īstenošanas laiks ir no 2017. gada 25. septembra līdz 2018. gadam 1. jūnijam.

Katras skolas bērni atklās un izmeklēs noteikto vēsturisko un kultūras tēmu. Dialogs un sadarbība starp iesaistītajām skolām palīdzēs bērniem iepazīt dažu valstu vēsturi un kultūru. Tādi IKT rīki kā youblisher, Skype, toonytool, padlet, digitālie stāsti tiks izmantoti projekta gaitā, lai parādītu darba stadijas, kopējus rezultātus.

Projektam tika ielānoti sekojoši posmi:

- Ievads;
- Vēsturisko periodu atlase;
- E-papīra lelles stāstu veidošana;
- Spēļu organizēšana starp skolām;
- Papīra leļļu ceļošana uz citām valstīm;

Projekta mērķis:

- Veidot zināšanas par cilvēku dzīvi noteiktā laika periodā;
- Veidot intelektuālās spējas radošajā domāšanā;
- Veidot salīdzinājumus un secinājumus, kas ir nepieciešami ikdienas dzīvē un turpmākajā izglītībā;
- Atbalstīt bērnu interesi un neatkarību;
- Veicināt skolēnu spēju strādāt komandās klasē un starptautiskā līmenī.
- Iegūt izpratni par IKT instrumentiem un tās iespējām;
- Iegūt svešvalodas lietošanas pieredzi reālajā situācijā un izprast tās nozīmi;

Ir cerams, ka projekta beigās bērniem būs ne tikai vēsturiskais un kultūras priekšstats par noteiktiem laika periodiem bet arī jaunie draugi un jauns dzīves piedzīvojums, kurš palīdzēs viņiem pilnvērtīgi piedalīties un integrēties sociālajā dzīvē.

Hello! My name is Victoria

I learn in 11th grade. I am a very hardworking girl. I sometimes listen to music and watch interesting videos.

Ancient Greek Clothes Style

The clothing they wore was simple. Most clothing was made at home. Women wore a tunic called a peplos and a garment called a chiton. Men wore a chiton, but it was made from a light material. Men and women wore a garment called a himation. The himation was a cloak which was worn in colder weather. Greeks did not wear shoes. They wear slippers or other soft-soled shoes.

Ancient Gothic Clothing Style

People wore clothing that protected them from the harsh climate. They wore long flowing clothes. They wore a long cloak, an under tunic and a short over tunic that was belted at the waist. The rich wore cloaks lined with fur, silk, or gold cloth. Hats, hoods, and other headresses assumed increasing importance, and were swagged, draped, jewelled, and feathered. The pointed toe was introduced; these shoes were called poulaine.

The Empire Dress Style 1800

Wearing of white gowns was a sign of social status. White gowns were kept for evening and in the day pastel or coloured robes were more suitable. In winter velvets, cottons, linens, fine wools and silks were used and sometimes flared petticoats or full under slip dresses.

The Renaissance Outfit

People wore linen, a light, cool fabric derived from the flax plant, wool, or sheepskin. Women wore gowns, a fuller skirt that would hang down to the ankles. Clothing of the upper classes was heavy and cumbersome. A man's outfit started with a shirt, similar to today's dress shirt, but lacking the collar and cuffs. Instead of trousers men wore hose on their legs.

Rococo Fashion

Louis XV's mistress Madame Pompadour established this style. She adored pastel colors and the light, happy style which came to be known as Rococo. During this period, a new silhouette for women developed. Women wore hair high upon their heads, in large plumes. Shoes had high, curved heels and were made of fabric or leather.

The Romantic Era Fashion Silhouette

The sleeves of the Romantic Era are the main feature. Large romantic wide hats, trimmed with feathers, loops of ribbons and bows were very popular at that time. Peterine collars came in several variations.

La Belle Époque Edwardian Fashion History

Middle and upper class women wore a costume or a suit with shortwaisted blouses. The high collar, S-bend corset, banded skirt and lavish hat all had an effect at that time.
